

Sandra K. Johnson

Senior Vice President, Business Development, Risk Management and Compliance

Sandra Johnson is senior vice president of business development, risk management, and chief compliance officer for Adventist Health System. Prior to joining Adventist Health System in 1997, Johnson served as president and chief executive officer of American Medical HealthCare, in Orlando, Florida. From 1991-1995, she served as vice president of managed care and business development for Florida Hospital. Johnson also served as vice president of Glendale Adventist Medical Center from 1987-1991.

Johnson received her master's degree in business administration from Rollins College and a bachelor's degree in business with a concentration in accounting from Andrews University. She is a member of the Council of Ethical Organizations, the Health Care Compliance Association, the American Society for Healthcare Risk Managers, the Healthcare Financial Management Association, founding member of the Privacy Officers Association, as well as a member of certain community and professional organizations.