

Richard K. Reiner
Executive Vice President
President/CEO, Multi-State Division

Rich Reiner serves as executive vice president for Adventist Health System and president/ chief executive officer of the Multi-State Division. In this capacity, he provides leadership to the twenty hospitals in Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Colorado and Texas. He chairs the Board of Centura Health, a joint operating company for the four Adventist facilities in the Denver area. Additionally, Reiner is the key liaison in other joint ventures with Scott & White Healthcare, Emory Healthcare and Wellmont Health Systems. He also provides executive leadership to the managed care contracting strategies and the development of a practice management company for all of the Adventist Health System markets.

Reiner previously provided executive leadership to the Florida Division and served as board chair to the ten hospitals located outside of the metropolitan Orlando area. He received his degree in business administration from Union College.

Reiner has participated in a variety of community groups through the years, including the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, credit union boards and two years as board chair for Junior Achievement of Central Florida. He currently serves on the Board of Trustees at Union College in Lincoln, Nebraska, and is active at his local church as a member of the building committee, finance committee and church board.