

John R. Brownlow
Senior Vice President, Managed Care

John Brownlow is senior vice president of managed care for Adventist Health System. He provides leadership for managed care relationships, strategy, contracting and contract management for Adventist Health System hospitals, ancillary services and affiliated physician practices. He has served in various executive managed care capacities within Adventist Health System since 1991, including development and leadership of several physician/hospital organizations (PHO). Brownlow has also held financial management positions in the long-term health care field.

He has bachelor degrees from Southern Adventist University in both accounting and long-term health care and received a masters in business management and organization from the University of Colorado.

Brownlow currently serves as the president of the Florida Association of Managed Care Professionals.